Teacherjobfairs.org Virtual Teacher Job Fair series to connect Early Childhood Teachers with School Jobs

New York, NY-It is hiring time for schools and Teacherjobfairs.org is connecting school districts with Early Childhood Teachers nationwide thru their proprietary Virtual Job Fairs series. The Early Childhood Virtual Teacher Job Fairs will be hosted by Teacherjobfairs.org. These online-virtual hiring events will provide an opportunity for public schools, charter schools, and academies nationwide to recruit a niche hard-to-find Early Childhood Teachers.

Over 15 niche online career fairs will be added to the Teacherjobfairs.org calendar roster and will include events on Saturdays to allow Teachers to apply for jobs and interview online.

“Teacherjobfairs.org strives to partner with Educators and School Districts alike in their pursuit of educating future generations. We have added to our career fair calendar events to address the need for recruiting Early Childhood Teachers, we will be connecting those school recruiters with students interested in becoming future educators, teachers wishing to re-enter the education sector, and those teachers currently looking to make a change.” Said Rubicela Acosta, CEO of Teacherjobfairs.org

The niche online series was driven by the DC Early Learning Collaborative (DCELC). DCELC the Early Childhood Virtual Teacher Job Fairs events in Washington DC. The highly attended events led to the rollout of other virtual fairs addressing the needs of recruitment of educators ~~at~~ in larger states. "The DC Early Learning Collaborative, an organization committed to providing high-quality early childhood programs and services for the children of the District of Columbia is launching a nationwide recruitment effort for Lead Teachers and Assistant Teachers for programs serving children from birth to five years of age. The District of Columbia recently passed legislation that provides salary parity for teachers in community-based programs equivalent to the salaries of teachers in the public school system. Therefore, our topnotch team of early childhood administrators will be at the fair recruiting highly-trained, highly-competent teachers who will be highly-compensated.” said Maurice Sykes, Chief Innovation Officer, DC Early Learning Collaborative.

Job Seekers are encouraged to register online at Teacherjobfairs.org website and upload their resumes. For those job seekers interested in interviewing using the Teacherjobfairs.org video platform, please dress professionally for interviews.
